

For my second milestone, I plan to attempt to do a rough model of the player character in blender, research tutorials to learn how to do shooting and basic npcs that can shoot back, and to attempt to implement that.

If I have extra time, I will attempt to implement a basic environment (a training environment) for the player to fight waves of enemies in. At some point, I also want to attempt destructible geometry if possible.